1990 TOBACCO YEAR IN REVIEW

South Carolina tobacco growers sold 100,997,167 pounds for $159,781,986.36 and an average of $158.20 per 100 pounds during the 1990 marketing season.

These figures were in contrast to producer sales of 98,773,862 pounds for $164,140,217.92 for an average of $166.18 per 100 pounds during the 1989 season.

Weather conditions played a leading role in the 1990 tobacco story in South Carolina, beginning with mild conditions in January and February shortly after tobacco beds were seeded. Mild weather resulted in earlier germination conditions for the seed which started the crop on an advanced growing cycle.

This trend continued in March and April with weather conditions becoming a mixture of cool, cold and then warm and hot temperatures along with mild rain. Conditions returned to normal weather-wise during May and June. There were some disease problems and isolated hail.

Additional weather extremes occurred in June and July with 100 degree plus temperatures and the onset of drought conditions. Field quality of the crop, as a result, declined.

A strong demand for the crop was shown during the opening week of sales, although the average per 100 pounds of $153.29 was off $2.82 from the initial week of the 1989 season.

Sliding prices and a weak demand prevailed for the next five weeks of sales. Improved marketing changes were experienced beginning with the seventh week of sales and continuing for the following three weeks. Sales conditions, however, weakened during the last four weeks of sales.

The Tobacco Market News Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture said of the 1990 season: "Demand was not as strong and both grade averages and quality were down from 1989. Hot dry weather early in the season and excessive water due to late rains had some negative impact on desirability of offerings. Total pounds increased from the previous year, however, gross money was down and the amount of tobacco placed under loan increased."

It also was pointed out that the great majority of grades suffered losses from last year. The practical top price for the season was $185 per 100 pounds, with the bulk of sales ranging from $151 to $177 per hundred. Composition of marketings was not quite as good as 1989 with the percentage of good and fair quality decreasing as low and poor increased.

Flue-Cured Stabilization Corporation receipts for the season amounted to 26,578,073 pounds or 13.8 percent of net sales compared to the 1989 total of 8,697,000 pounds or 4.7 percent being placed under loan.

South Carolina markets recorded 53 sales days with markets opening July 24 and closing October 25. This figure was an increase of seven sales days over 1989. Twelve sets of buyers operated on the markets throughout the season.
